Olive DeLuce Tells of Art Research Work

College Instructor Urges Members of Faculty and Students of S. T. C. to Make the College an Art Center.

At the last meeting of the College faculty, Miss DeLuce, chairman of the Department of Fine and Industrial Arts, gave a brief talk on the fine arts of the state of Missouri, part of the material of her talk being derived from her research as chairman of the Fine Arts Survey for the state. The entire report of the work of this survey, will be completed and published sometime within the year. This will be, according to Miss DeLuce, a unique contribution to fine arts, an artistic Who's Who of the state, and should prove most valuable both to art students and to the general public. Only two other states, New York and Indiana, have anything of its kind.

A number of outstanding art centers in the state were touched upon, including St. Louis, Jefferson City, and Kansas City. Of particular interest to the College is Miss DeLuce's comment that, with the aid of a forward-looking faculty and student body, the College is in a position to become an art center for Northwest Missouri.

Miss DeLuce described fine arts as including everything that makes a visual appeal. Everyone has something to do with art, and creates it, after a fashion, Miss DeLuce stated.

The administration building, she said, is a very good piece of architecture, viewed from the outside, and particularly from the front. It is Tudor Gothic in style, an adaptation of the type of building used in England in the sixteenth century in Oxford and Cambridge. The best view of it can be obtained from the drive-way on the east which gives a constantly changing, and therefore increasingly interesting viewpoint.

Coach Davis Returns From Florida Trip

Coach "Lefty" Davis, head of the physical education department, Bearcat football and track mentor, returned Saturday from a trip to Tampa, Florida, where he has been on a visit at the home of his parents, since leaving here December 2. Mr. Davis was accompanied by Mrs. Davis, and by Paul Kissinger, of Maryville.

The entire trip was made by automobile, and was quite enjoyable, according to Mr. Davis, with the exception of a few accidents. "Lefty" said, "a majority of the time was spent hunting, chasing around, and having a good time."

During Mr. Davis's absence, Henry Iba, basketball coach, has filled the position as director of physical education. Mr. Davis expects to take up his coaching activities immediately by calling out the squad and beginning training and conditioning for the forthcoming track season.

New Major Will Be Offered in Commerce

Pi Omega Pi, honorary commercial fraternity, held its regular meeting Thursday evening at 4:20 in Room 103. In a talk given by Mr. Mounce, the chairman of the commerce department stated that the department was striving to meet the needs of the students.

It was to accomplish this purpose, Mr. Mounce said, that a new major and minor, the teaching of commerce in high school, were created this year. The new field enables students majoring in commerce to prepare to teach the subject while the business administration major enables students to prepare to enter the business world. Mr. Mounce told the members of the fraternity.

Details were also given concerning the new teacher placement bureau that has been created within the commerce department and whose purpose is to aid commerce students to secure positions.

Vera Smith, B. S. '29, who is instructor of music at Stewartville, spent Sunday visiting friends at Residence Hall.

Students Have Won Penmanship Awards

Mr. Newcomb, of the commerce faculty, has announced the names of the following students who received the Palmer Certificate for proficiency in penmanship at the close of the fall quarter course in Penmanship Methods:

Vera Billups, Edward Dietz, Lorinno Harris, Ethel Folden, Dolores Mozingo, Maxine Neely, Viola Petty, and Mildred Sandison. Two correspondence students also received the certificate. They were Carl Blockschmidt of St. Louis, and Gladys Cochran, who is now in school at Lathrop.

Winter Sports Are Now in Progress

The women's sport classes for the winter quarter have been organized into three divisions, volleyball, basketball, and swimming. Class contests in these sports are to take place in the order named.

The volleyball practice is being changed somewhat this quarter. The girls will play according to boys' rules except for the privilege of striking the ball as many times as desired. This new arrangement, it is hoped, will make the sport much more active and at the same time require more skill.

Basketball season for women will open in about three weeks.

The swimming class seems to be progressing very well. If enough persons are interested, an arrangement can be made for an open-house some night soon when both boys and girls can enjoy an evening at the pool. Swimmers are asked to express their desires on this proposition.

Glee Club Sings At H. S. Assembly

At the regular College High School assembly, Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, the high school girls' glee club sang three numbers. They sang "Marianne," "Sweet and Low," and "Oh, Susanna." From the students' applause, it seemed that the numbers were appreciated very much. Earl Sonerville was director of the glee club and Lucille Leeson was accompanist.

Clara McGinness was elected secretary-treasurer of the high school to succeed Botha Colhour, who is not now attending the high school. Opal Cooper was the other nominee for the office.

Evelyn Evans had charge of the devotional exercises at the opening of the assembly. Mr. Dieterich read a letter from LaVerne Campbell, a former student who is now in the navy.

San Malo Tells of Experience with Mussolini

Violinist Who Will be Here Tomorrow Recently Played for Il Duce—Musical Courier Carries Story.

Just returned from Europe on the SS. Bremen, the San Malo family, consisting of the distinguished Panamanian violinist, his charming wife and their foster-child, the famous Lipinski Guarnerius fiddle, were seen in their cozy quarters in the Wellington Hotel. Mr. San Malo is an artist who is interesting in many respects besides his musical accomplishments, and for that reason the writer lost no time in subjecting him to a friendly grilling on his activities abroad. The violinist passed quickly over his successes in Austria and Italy—such things with artists of his calibre are more or less a matter of course. The subject uppermost in his mind was Mussolini, the great Fascist leader of Italy, to whom he had been introduced as the "symbol of Latin America's culture and ideals." Officially, San Malo is President of the Central American Labor Party, and he also holds a post in the Panamanian diplomatic service. He was presented to the Duce by Don Antonio Burgos, Panamanian minister to Italy.

Allowing San Malo to tell his own story: "Patiently we waited an hour and a half to see Il Duce a few minutes at the Palazzo Venezia, where the Premier works during the day and often late at night. The Palazzo is surrounded by guards, but the ear of the legation was readily admitted and we waited in the garden. At length I was ushered through several rooms, all beautiful and artistically arranged with the charm of the past. Then a door was opened, and at the far end of a very large room I saw Mussolini; he was telephoning, but saw me and beckoned me to approach. As I did he hung up the receiver, and greeted me with a hearty handshake. He was not in the best of spirits, he said, as he had been very much upset by the news of an attempt by anti-Fascist to kill Crown Prince Humbert while he was visiting his fiancée, Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. He regretted that he had not been able to attend my concert at the Sala Sgambati and said that if the place were suitable he would have me play for him then and there. Mussolini, you know, is a violinist of no mean powers himself.

"Il Duce spoke to me in Italian, which I understood from its similarity to Spanish, my language. I answered in French, and we got along famously that way. I expressed my eagerness to play for him, and he made an appointment. (Continued on page 3)

President Lamkin Is In Washington

President Lamkin left Maryville Saturday night to attend another meeting in Washington, D. C., of the American education commission appointed by Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of interior in the Hoover cabinet. President Lamkin is a member of the commission's steering committee of nine. He will be absent all this week.

Dr. Hake, chairman of the faculty council, is acting president in Mr. Lamkin's absence.

College Instructor Visits at Phoenix

Miss Jack says, "I spent my Christmas vacation out where the skies are blue and sunnier." She was at her home in Phoenix, Arizona.

The whole family was together for the first time in many years. "My chief amusement," she says, "was going on picnics. Evidence of this is the pile of shoes near the front door."

She made several interesting trips around Phoenix, one of which was taken in the direction of Black Canyon, the land of the home-steaders.

William Holdridge Visits in Minnesota

Mr. William E. Holdridge visited at his home in Foley, Minnesota, during the Christmas vacation.

He spent some time in St. Paul and Minneapolis and saw several plays there. He also saw "The Journey's End," at the Shubert Theatre in Kansas City.

Ruth Florea Loses Breach of Promise Suit

Miss Florea sues Ellsworth Henkins for Breach of Promise, but Loses Case When Jury Flips Nickel.

Social Hall, Monday night, December 16, was the scene of the Law Club trial, which attracted a large crowd of students and faculty. Mr. Mounce, the club sponsor, was very well pleased with the exhibition, saying that it compared very favorably with mock trials conducted by seniors in law school.

At seven thirty, Judge Dean L. Rybolt, with a flourish of the gavel called the court to order and the trial was on. Russell Noblet, who opened the case for the plaintiff with a seven-minute speech, was answered by Merlin Groom, attorney for the defendant. After the swearing in of witnesses and jury, the eliciting of evidence from witnesses began. The entire trial was a battle of wits between opposing lawyers whose objections and reasons given, often gave Judge Rybolt trouble in conducting the case. Clinton Morris, Wilbur Henkin and Russell Noblet were attorneys for the plaintiff, Miss Ruth Florea, who was suing Mr. Ellsworth Henkins for Breach of Promise. He was defended by Merlin Groom, Orville Kelim and Lawrence Brown. T. R. Hooper was court stenographer and Lee Boven, sheriff.

The questioning for the plaintiff was done by Clinton Morris, with assistance from Wilbur Henkin. As the time for pleas was limited, attorney Morris used a minute for summing up the case and gave the floor to Mr. Henkin, who gave the powerful plea for justice to the "innocent and pure young maiden whose heart was broken by the brute in our midst," while defendant lawyers cheered and jeered in an attempt to distract his thoughts. Merlin Groom gave the closing speech for the defendants.

The jury was out some twenty minutes before returning the verdict for the defendant. Attorneys for the plaintiff, believing, as one of the jurors afterwards confessed, "had the nickel rolled heads, the case would have been won," have appealed the case, which will probably be tried before the assembly at an early date. At any rate, the Law Club will have the assembly hour for a trial sometime soon.

The Law Club not only provides much entertainment and amusement, but gives its members some very good experience. Plans are under way for a busy and profitable year. The club is reported to be one of the liveliest on the campus.

Pictures Will Be Shown at Assembly

A twenty-five minute moving picture program will be given as a part of the assembly of February 19, according to an announcement by Mr. Garrett of the biology department. The film to be shown is called "The Cultivation of Living Tissue," which has been prepared by the British Cancer Research Society at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London.

The University of Kansas has purchased the films and, by paying the required fee, Mr. Garrett was able to secure them for the College.

Alpha Sig Sorority Holds Initiation

An impressive formal initiation ceremony was held at the new Alpha Sigma Alpha house on College Avenue from three to five Saturday afternoon. Following the initiation, a banquet was given at Lewis' by the actives in honor of the pledges, patronesses, and advisor of the sorority.

Those attending the dinner were: Patronesses, Mrs. U. G. Whiffen, Mrs. C. M. Price, Mrs. Charles A. Haggard; advisor, Miss Nell Martindale; alumnae, Mary Elizabeth Jones, Hildred Fitz, Alyce Hastings; actives, Karol Oliphant, Isabel McDaniel, Betty Seelman, Martha Pfeiffer, Gertrude Wray, Imogene Woolf, Evelyn Evans, Irene Smith, Martha Wyman, Juanita Marsh; pledges, Alberta Kunkel, Vashti Conn, Margaret Sutton, Mrs. John Kutz, Katherine Gray, Clara Mae Shartzer, Marian Gann, Ruth Cook, Mary Margaret James, Anna Mae Adams, Betty Hickernell, Lois McCrary, and K. Virginia Meyers.

After the banquet the girls attended the Maryville-Cape Girardeau game.

Recommendations Committee Is Speedy

Efficiency hounds might get a point or from the following story:

At seven o'clock Monday morning, a certain school district sent in a request to the recommendations committee of the College for an English teacher. At 7:05, a teacher was found and employed. At 7:30, the teacher was on her way to the school. At 9:00, she was teaching. The school was Harmony district, northwest of Ravenwood; the teacher secured was Hildred Fitz of Maryville, a graduate of the College; and the efficiency expert was Mr. Bert Cooper, of the College recommendations committee.

Bearcats Scalp Cape Indians in Title Tilt

A Fighting Team Is Beginning to Show Condition for Fast Conference Games. Win 37-13, 41-12. Kirkville Coming.

A game, but outclassed, Indian team from Cape Girardeau, was quite severely scalped last Friday and Saturday nights, and at the same time a fighting Bearcat basketball aggregation threw its hat into the M. I. A. A. conference ring as a leading contender for this year's title. Maryville defeated the Cape team 37 to 13, and 41 to 12.

At no time did the Bearcats find the going hard, and the competition was far from sufficient to furnish any thrills, although the Red Men went down trying. Until Maryville overcame a four-point lead at the start of the first game was the only real excitement caused, and after that it was an affair of mere formality, mainly for the scorekeeper.

In the first affair Cape managed to hold out sufficiently well the first half to maintain a flickering interest. The Bearcats at the very first seemed a bit wary, and were hesitant about shooting, often missing when the attempt was made. On the other hand, the South-easterners, had confidence instilled into them by the fact that they had forced Kirkville into an overtime period in their preceding game with the Bulldogs, and by the fact that the personnel was practically all unacquainted with the M. I. A. A. style of play.

Any trace of doubt was removed, however, when at the first of the second half the Bearcats cut loose with such a barrage of scores that water had to be poured onto the scoreboard to keep it cool. Every Maryville man had found the basket and every play from the tip-off to the out-of-bounds was a score. A storm continued until the end of the game. (Continued on Page 4)

Freshman English Class Has Contest

The freshmen high school English classes finished a project of the study of the "Lady of the Lake" last week. Friendly rivalry between the two classes culminated in a contest. At the close of the project, the classes were given practice in journalistic style of writing. Each pupil wrote an account of the contest. One of these is to be chosen for publication in "The Cub's Tales," the high school paper.

Following is the article written by Lela Hardisty:

"The Scottish Bagpipers, freshmen students in high school English, Room 301, challenged the Knights of King James, freshmen students in Room 125, for a contest in complete quotations taken from 'The Lady of the Lake.'"

The Knights of King James accepted their challenge and challenged the Scottish Bagpipers for a quotation contest taken from "The Lady of the Lake." They accepted the challenge from the Knights of King James. Both contests were held Wednesday, January 8, in Room 301. The Knights of King James were defeated in both contests. After the contest of the complete quotations, a play, "Alice Brand," was given by the Scottish Bagpipers.

Former Students of College Are Married

Another College romance has culminated in the marriage of two former students, Miss Geraldine Lawrence, of Craig, and Ralph Eugene Wilson, of St. Joseph. The marriage took place at high noon, Thursday, December 26, in Nebraska City, Nebraska.

Miss Lawrence is a graduate of the Tarkio High School. She taught three years at the Mt. Hope school near Craig, and one year at Woodriven, near St. Louis.

Mr. Wilson (or "Bert") is a better known name.

COLLEGE OATH
"We will never bring disgrace to this college by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the college. We will reverse and obey the college laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this college to those who come after us, greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

January 16, 1930, marks the tenth anniversary of the eighteenth amendment, which became effective on January 16, 1920, after having been ratified by three-fourths of the states. This is one of the most famous dates of modern history.

The ratification of the eighteenth amendment, however, is only one step towards the fight that must keep going until the whole liquor curse is removed from humanity.

Numerous suggestions have been made for observing this anniversary. The Anti-Saloon League asks that, at twelve o'clock, the church bells of the nation be rung for ten minutes; one minute for each year the amendment has been in effect.

The churches of Maryville will combine for a meeting at the First Methodist Church that evening.

REMEMBER?

Can you remember when you used to be "tickled to death" when you got out of bed some crisp winter morning and found that the ground was covered with snow for the first time that season? If breakfast wasn't ready just the minute you rushed down stairs, you'd grab your cap and sweater and put them on while you were going down to the basement to get your sled.

It wasn't such a "swell-looking" sled, but just the same you had set a record the winter before by turning the corner there at Kellogg's and going to the first telephone pole the other side of the bridge.

Can't you remember how you lost your appetite, and that you weren't the "least bit hungry" when mother called you to breakfast? But since mother insisted that you come and eat, you did it... hurriedly, and were off to set another record. Boy, wasn't it thrilling!

Over the Library Desk

The folks behind the desk are pleased that the library clock has at last decided to fall in step with the other time pieces in the building.

This clock, which is located in the east library, at times asserts its independence and, figuratively speaking, but not literally, goes on a strike. During the last month it has been showing its initiative by choosing its own rate of speed.

At first it "didn't choose to run;" that is, without assistance. It is rumored that more than one candy bar changed hands, because of students' inability to judge how long a pendulum will continue to swing, after it is set in motion.

The clock's next move was a slow one since it registered but five minutes every twenty-four hours.

At last, by the aid of the "clock expert" of the College, it was persuaded to resume a normal rate of speed, and is again gaining the confidence of those behind the desk.

The library received a thorough inspection Monday morning at eleven o'clock. The clock was found to be in good shape and was set for the day.

Arise for the Team.

It has long been the custom of the student body of the College to arise when one of its teams makes its appearance on the field or floor. The members of the 1929-30 Bearcat Basketball team feel that the student body is with them and pulling for them for a victorious season. Let's show the battlers for S. T. C. just how proud we are of them and how ready we are to do our part, in loyalty to them and to the Green and White, by standing as the team comes on the floor, not only at the next, but at every game.

Needlework Guild Does Practical Work

Much good work of a practical kind is being done for the unfortunates of Maryville by the Needlework Guild. The Maryville chapter, organized a little more than a month ago, has already received 700 articles of clothing.

Working in cooperation with the local Red Cross, hospitals, welfare boards, churches and other organizations, and county health bureau, the Guild has distributed this material among the needy and unfortunate of this community. The articles received were all new. Donations of new garments and household linen and money are acceptable to the Guild.

At present, the Maryville chapter is made up of twenty-nine units with twenty-nine directors. Each unit must have at least ten members who annually contribute two or more new articles of wearing apparel or household linen, and one member who is a money contributor. Many of the units have more members, the largest one having a membership of forty-two.

The first Needlework Guild was organized at Iwerne, Dorsetshire, England, in 1883. The founder, Lady Wolvorton, was interested in an orphan home and conceived the idea of having the wardrobe of the institution cared for by asking friends to make yearly contributions of two new articles of wearing apparel or household linen.

In 1885, a Philadelphia woman, brought the idea home from England. Her niece, Laura Safford, now Mrs. John Wood Stewart, the founder of the American organization, interested a few young women of her acquaintance. In this small group, an organization was started which, in 1929, had over 350,000 members in the United States.

Nell Martindale Visits in Kansas

Miss Martindale spent her vacation at her home in Lawrence, Kansas. A large part of the time, Miss Martindale said, was spent in riding. "I took several trips from Kansas City to Topeka in order to run off mileage on my new Buick car," Miss Martindale explained.

Y. W. C. A. Literature

The Y. W. C. A. has been given a shelf in the west library for its reading materials.

Students and others are welcome to use the literature placed there for the benefit of all who are interested.

Faculty Men Go Hunting

Some of the faculty members seem to be able to do other things besides making assignments. Four of them, at least, have good trigger fingers.

Mr. Kinnaird, Mr. Dieterich, Mr. Schowengerdt, and Mr. Garrett killed fifty rabbits Saturday. They could have killed more, it is reported, if their supply of ammunition had not been exhausted.

Some of the rabbits were fried for the men's Monday Forum luncheon.

College Chorus

Men's Glee Club

Officers elected for the Men's Glee Club, at their regular Monday meeting, are: President, Earl Somerville, Maryville; vice-president, Charles Thomas, Ravenwood; secretary-treasurer, William Alsop, Maryville; librarian, William Dowden, Maryville; and business manager, Erman Barrett of Maryville.

Dinner Guests

On Thursday evening of last week, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Garrett entertained dinner at their home on East Main, in honor of Mr. and Mrs.

B. James, Miss Gertrude Garrett, and the hosts.

REPRESENTATION

Freshmen base their claims to representation on the student council on their enthusiasm, participation in athletics, and size of their class.

Upperclassmen rest snugly on the privilege of granting or denying representation and explain their stand by saying that freshmen are ignorant of the traditions of the school and are unwilling and unfit to assume responsibility.

There were nine members present at an upperclass meeting held recently for the purpose of electing its representative on the student council. Students may draw their own conclusions.

Sixth District Alumni Meet Is Held in K.C.

S. T. C. is Represented at Meeting of Many Alumni Association Secretaries Held at Kansas City Athletic Club.

In answer to the question "Who should be entitled to membership in an alumni organization of a college or university, which question was asked at the District meeting of the American Alumni Council held in Kansas City, last Friday and Saturday, January 10-11, a unanimous response was made to the effect that in the schools of those there represented, the tendency now, is to invite all students who have ever attended the institution to become active members. Some of the alumni secretaries present said that their organizations specified a certain period of time in attendance at their respective schools as necessary before ex-students of the schools would be asked to become members of the association, but that they were getting more and more away from specifying a certain period of time, such as a semester or year in attendance at the college. Cards of students dishonorably discharged are given a separate file. Leaders at the meeting said that the time had passed when graduates of institutions, throw out their chests and crow about being holders of a degree.

In answer to the question "Should money be raised from the members of an alumni association for the purpose of giving gifts to the Alma Mater, such as a pipe organ, campanile, a piece of statuary, a building or some other such gift, in a State Institution such as one of our Missouri Teachers Colleges?" the replies were in the affirmative. The question was asked because some people have expressed the thought that in an institution supported by the state, the graduates and former students of a school should not be asked to contribute such things as those mentioned above. Those present were unanimous in expressing the thought concerning this that no alumnus or former student should be "deprived" of this pleasure of giving to his Alma Mater. Many present gave examples of how former students of their institutions, though not graduates, were playing a great part in supporting and bettering their institutions.

From those present it was learned that many of the alumni associations have life memberships which can be purchased by members of the association for a price ranging from $35 to $75 dollars. It was suggested for teachers colleges such as are found in Missouri, that $50 would be about right for a life membership.

The plan used in most schools is to let the students pay for the life membership in monthly payments of perhaps $5 a month or on some such arrangement of time payment. It was suggested that the money thus received could be loaned out to worthy students at 6 per cent interest, to the extent of not more than $200 to $300 dollars a year, the loan thus made to be handed to the student at the rate of perhaps $25 a month. Some of those present reported that this plan was working efficiently at their schools. It was reported that a faculty committee in connection with the alumni association usually handles the money and that the interest from the loans keeps the funds from diminishing, which is not true when the life membership funds are used for student scholarships.

It was suggested that an alumni association fund should be maintained to which could be contributed large or small amounts by those graduates and former students of the school who care to give to their schools, and that the alumni association should fall in line with the administrator in charge of the institution and do all in its power to make the school better.

Henry W. Matlack, of Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, Director of the Sixth District, and Mr. Fred Ellsworth, of Kansas University, Lawrence, Kansas, who is Director of the District Conferences, had charge of the meeting.

Those present were the following:

Dorothy A. Davis, Secretary to the Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association at the University of Iowa; H. A. Dean, Secretary of the Alumni Association at Park College; Robert L. Finch, Alumni Secretary at Drake University; Mrs. Louis R. Kriz, President of Coe College Alumni Association; Fred Ellsworth, Alumni Secretary at the University of Kansas; Ray E. Kamay, Secretary of the Alumni Association at University of Nebraska; George M. McElroy, secretary of a former student association at Oklahoma A. and M. College; M. Claud Wilson, delegate from the University of Wichita; Kerney L. Ford, Alumni Secretary at Kansas State Agricultural College; Elizabeth Tiernan, Associate Editor of the Alumni, the alumni magazine at Iowa State College; Gus Peters, Alumni Secretary at St. Louis University; Barbara Freeman, Librarian and Chairman of the Alumni Committee at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College; Jesse E. Salter, University of Wichita; Miss Leta Dawes, Secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association and Secretary of the Recommendations Committee at Central Missouri State Teachers College; (Mrs. J. A.) Stewart T. Alsop, President of the Alumni Association and J. E. Davis, Business Manager and Alumni Secretary at William Jewell College; O. K. Armstrong, Alumni Secretary at Drury College; S. C. Skeels, alumnus of Iowa State University; H. W. Matlack, Alumni Secretary at Grinnell College; Louis E. Trantwein, Representative of Philo Stevenson at Washington University; George F. College Students Lead in Meetings

The subject for discussion at the Young People's meeting at the M. E. Church, South, Sunday evening was "Prayer." The leader for the meeting was Miss Anna Mae Holt, an instructor in the Maryville public schools. As a special number, Carl Blackwelder played a cornet solo.

The subject for the next meeting, Sunday evening, January 19, is "Prayer in Business and School." The leader for this meeting is Miss Boulah Phillips.

Cleola Dawson and Martha Horridge went to St. Joseph Saturday to see a stage presentation of "Rio Rita."

Piano Recital

Mr. William Holdridge, of the College Conservatory of Music, will present his pupils, students of piano, in a recital soon. The exact time and place for the recital has not as yet been announced.

Piano Concert Will Be Given On February 3

Miss Alma Mohus, Noted Pianist, Who Will Appear at the College, Has Received Favorable Press Comments.

Students of the College and music lovers of Maryville have made statements to the effect that they are looking forward with pleasant anticipation to the piano concert to be given by Miss Alma Mohus, at the College auditorium Monday, February 3.

According to leading music critics, Miss Mohus possesses all the requisites of a great artist. She has been acclaimed here and abroad as one of the best pianists of the present day. Her tour in Germany, Italy, and in Norway was a succession of immense triumphs. She has established her right to fame as a great exponent of the art of piano playing. Upon hearing her play in Berlin, Dr. Paul Ertel, noted critic and composer, exclaimed: "It is such playing that packs concert halls."

The "Orebladet" (Oslo, Norway) said: "A remarkable pianist with great technique and a majestic tone. She made a sensational impression. She was vigorously applauded and was recalled many times." Another Oslo, Norway, paper, "Tidens Tegn" said of her concert: "An extremely thorough and gifted pianist with a highly developed technique and freedom and brilliancy in execution."

C. E. Watt said in the "Music News" (Chicago): "Never in my life have I heard the Beethoven Sonata Appassionata played with more of the heroic quality. The first movement was in her reading, the utterance of a giant in distress, of a powerful locomotive in action, or of the expanse and dignity of the ocean itself. . . . It was indeed a great privilege to be one of the audience to first hear her here."

One of the leading music critics of the Northwest, Dr. James Davies, says in the "Tribune" (Minneapolis): "After a strenuous season of music, it is pleasant for the music reviewer to attend a concert, expect the ordinary, and find that his anticipations were based on false premises. This was the case Thursday evening, when Alma Mohus gave a recital which proved to be one of the most delightful heard this season. The tone of this artist is most unwomanly for it has the power and urge so often heard from our more robust performers of the sterner sex, and, furthermore, striking dynamic effects are secured with the least perceptible expenditure of energy."

"Temperament, coupled with such dazzling technique, makes Miss Mohus a thrilling artist," said the Jacksonville Daily Journal (Illinois).

Tells of Experience

ment for me two days later at the Villa Torlonia, his private residence. Everything went so quickly that I did not realize I had met Mussolini and was to play for him until I stood again with Don Antonio Burgos outside the Palazzo.

"What a man he is! He is all action—all precision and no hesitation. His worst enemy could not help admiring him. You do not need to be his friend to like him and wish with all your heart that you could be of service to him. You are absolutely at ease in his presence—he assumes nothing of the grand manner and immediately dispels any nervousness or diffidence in you by his natural, unassuming ways."

"On the morning of the day of my appointment to play at the Villa Torlonia I received a phone call from the foreign office. 'Il Duce! I almost dropped the receiver—I thought that my treasured appointment was to be called off. No, it was only to ask Senor San Malo not to wear full dress. Il Duce would appreciate so much if he wore a street suit. I was so excited I don't even remember in what language I answered."

"Having carefully chosen an Italian Fascist accompanist and prepared a long list of pieces for my distinguished listener to select from, I took my faithful Guarnerius and proceeded to the Villa Torlonia. In the beautiful garden the automobile had to go a long way before the house was reached. The bell was answered by a plain and simple servant girl, and were ushered to an oval room with a cupola above. "Mussolini entered, holding by the left hand his son, Romano; with the other hand he made the Roman—now the Fascist—salute. Then he shook hands with me and introduced his son, a fine, big, healthy boy. The room was rather small, sparsely furnished, but the walls were hung with wonderful works of art, one a crayon portrait of his elder son. There was a piano, in front of which stood a red velvet couch on either side of which was an ordinary cane chair. The Duce sat on the couch, three or four meters from where I stood ready to play.

"At the door of the dining room I stepped aside, saying: 'apros lo Premier!' Mussolini took me by the arm and said: 'Artists first.' Inside were ministers and diplomats, and not being familiar with the protocol rules I felt very awkward. But champagne and a hearty toast by Mussolini to my future successes soon put me at ease. The Premier spoke for several minutes, dwelling on the fact that now he had arranged the indispensable things, such as railroads etc., he was busy with the arts and all that concerned the beauty of Italy. Alluding to the various cities I had played he called Bologna the red city of Italy, and Florence the white."

"Later, when I mentioned that a little cat had been walking between the people under the chairs at my concert in Rome, and that I adore cats, Mussolini said that he also loves them; and does not allow anybody to kill one and go unpunished."

"After hearing all the rest of my list of pieces, Mussolini asked for an encore. Very tired, I offered a Berceuse 'to put your Excellency to sleep.' The pun amused him very much. Of all the pieces I played the only one he did not applaud was a Slavic dance of Dvorak. I wondered why he did not like it, because it is very beautiful."

"I could go on all day talking about this wonderful man, but time is getting short and I know you have other things to do, too." Before accepting which conge, the writer elicited the facts that San Malo returns to Italy in April, where a tour is already arranged; that last July he made three Victor red-seal records and that in the same month he opened the Hollywood Bowl season with Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole; and that last April he made a tour of South America, where he had not appeared for fourteen years. His first New York appearance this season was on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day, at Carnegie Hall.—Nov. Musical Courier.

Dramatics Club Appoints Council

Fifty-five members attended the business meeting of the Dramatics Club Thursday, January 9. The Dramatics Council for the winter quarter, announced by Mr. Miller, is as follows: Student director of dramatics, Clifton Morris; program director, Aris Ann Freeland; stage manager, Burl Zimmerman; publicity director, Ruth Flores; members at large, Betty Seelman and Carl Leroy Fisher; secretary, Martha Wyman; treasurer, Martha Herdige.

Each person present was given two mimeographed sheets to be filled out with information which will be used in selecting casts in the future.

At the next meeting of the Dramatics Club, January 16, the play, "Overtones," by Alice Gerstenberg, will be presented. The cast for the play is: Harriet . . . Margaret Conner Betty . . . Grace Morris Margaret . . . Virginia Tulloch Maggie . . . Lucille Max

Fine Arts Class Completes Project

Some interesting work in designing was done by the class in Fine Arts 81 just before the Christmas holidays. Each of the three members of the class completed a somewhat different project in a similar type of work.

Grace Leach made forty Christmas cards, using three by five inch gilt-edge cards. She placed on each card a holly leaf and berry design in an oval wreath with the words, "Merry Christmas" printed on the outside and the name within. The design for these cards was first worked out on paper and the name and lettering cut in relief on a block.

Hazel Carr made a towel border, using a duck design. The principle of her designing was very similar to that used by Miss Leach.

From Helen Slagle, the third member of the class, the facts were obtained concerning her project, wood block printing. The first thing to consider, Miss Slagle said, is the choice of an original and interesting design. Designs, two inches square are then drawn on paper. The part of the design which is to be left on the block is blackened to get an idea of how it will look when printed. When the design is perfected, it is ready to be transferred to the wooden block on which is a layer of linoleum. The design is traced on the linoleum and the part not to be cut out is blackened. After the pattern is cut out, it is printed with oil paint of the desired color.

Although these designs were intended for use on velvet, the student was given the privilege of choosing the article to be decorated. One of the articles chosen was a blue pillow which was stamped in gold, green by using ochre and yellow chrome paint with lead. While the paint was still wet on the velvet, gold dust was brushed over the design. The edge of the pillow was finished with gold braid.

Fine Arts Class Goes on Field Trips

The Fine Arts class in Home Planning and Interior decoration has been making trips to houses in town to see how they are planned and built. The students took note of the size of lots and the size and kind of houses which were suitable for various size lots.

For the past week, they have been working out an interesting sand table project.

The class began by planning on paper the placement of an English style house 26 feet by 34 feet, and an average size garage, 8 feet by 18 feet, on a regular city lot, 66 feet by 132 feet. Finally shrubs and trees were placed.

Since the class discovered that a vivid idea could not be gained as to how the home would actually look from seeing it on paper, a sand table plot of the project was made on a quarter inch scale.

The class found that the use of the sand table as a means of teaching home-planning made a unique and attractive project. The completed project is on display in the south studio.

Faculty Dames Meet at H.O. Hickernell's

Mrs. H. O. Hickernell, assisted by Mrs. H. R. Dieterich, entertained the Faculty Dames Thursday afternoon, January 9, at the home of Mrs. Hickernell at 227 West First Street.

Those present were: Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin, Mrs. J. W. Hake, Mrs. Carl Schowengerdt, Mrs. Jesse Miller, Mrs. H. G. Dildine, Mrs. O. Myking Mehus, Mrs. O. C. Miller, Mrs. Roy Kinnaird, Mrs. Henry A. Foster, Mrs. W. T. Garrett, Mrs. George Seikel, Mrs. Herman Schuster, Mrs. Bert Cooper, Mrs. V. A. Newcomb, Mrs. George H. Colbert, Mrs. H. R. Dieterich, and Mrs. H. O. Hickernell. Mrs. J. H. Manns, of Waynetown, Indiana, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Miller, was a guest at the meeting.

The next meeting of the Faculty Dames will be held February 13. Mrs. Henry A. Foster and Mrs. George H. Colbert will be the hostesses.

Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Street, graduates of S. T. C., of the class of 1927, live at Harveyville, Kansas. Mr. Street, who was a member of the cast of "Smilin' Through," senior play of 1927, and was prominent in student activities, is manager of a lumber yard in Harveyville. Mrs. Street is teaching in the public schools there.

Fred paid his Alumni Association dues while at the College and left the address at which he wants the Northwest Missourian sent.

President Lamkin Talks at Assembly

Two anniversaries of a very different nature were celebrated last week, according to a statement made by President Lamkin in a short talk at the regular College assembly held Wednesday, January 8, at 10:00 a. m.

January 8 was the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of New Orleans, while Friday, January 10, was the tenth birthday of the League of Nations. In continuing his comments on the League, President Lamkin said, in effect, that whether the present organization for maintaining peace is successful or not, it is a move in the direction of closer union between nations, and should receive the cooperation of every nation.

The assembly was opened with a scripture reading and prayer by Mr. Cauffman, after which several important announcements were made. The Green and White Pepper Dance, meetings of the Law Club and Dramatic Club, and the basketball games, were announced as the principal events of the week.

Season tickets for the basketball games at the gymnasium were placed on sale Thursday at the College and at Kuchs Brothers. Student tickets, according to President Lamkin, are good for seats on the west side of the gymnasium, while the east side is reserved for spectators other than students. Tickets for the eight home games are to be sold for seventy-five cents each, or $5.00 for a season ticket. Balcony seats are fifty cents.

A talk was given by Coach Iba concerning the method of basketball to be played by the Bearcats this year. Mr. Iba ended his talk with a pep speech encouraging students to come to the games and to stand behind the Bearcats, saying that the team would be the type of team the students wanted.

Mr. Rickenbrode Writes of His Trip

Mr. Rickenbrode, business manager at the College, who is now taking a three-month's vacation in the Territory of Hawaii, landed at Honolulu Saturday, December 28, at two p. m., according to a letter received by Miss Florence Holliday.

The Royal Hawaiian Band was playing at the pier when the boat landed, Mr. Rickenbrode said. He also added that there were coconut trees loaded with coconuts everywhere, and vegetables of all kinds were being enjoyed by the people. Children were going barefoot, Mr. Rickenbrode said, and the weather was so warm as to permit him to wear summer clothing and to go bareheaded.

In a letter to President Lamkin, Mr. Rickenbrode described his voyage and his trip to the coast. The letter, in part, is as follows: My dear Mr. Lamkin: If everything goes well we will land tomorrow sometime. The captain has not told us what hour. We think it will be about noon.

The voyage has been fine all the way. A little rough for a couple of days, but no storm. Weather is warm, but not hot. I have not had my overcoat on since we left the Grand Canyon.

There are only sixty-five passengers on board. This is a very small number, but they say the last trip before Christmas is always small. From the papers which we got at Los Angeles, I suppose you have had some snow which might mean cold weather.

Grand Canyon is wonderful. We did not take the mule ride to the bottom. Took an auto in the morning and another one in the afternoon. It looks as if Harvey runs the whole thing up there. Our pullman stayed there all day, and we ate at the Harvey lunch room.

We had 2228 miles to go and at noon today there were 342 miles left. They did not make very good speed the last twenty-four hours of account of a strong wind from the southwest.

I have not been sick one minute. I am ready for every meal. It might be better for me if I did not eat so much. We are having a good time but want some news from home.

Y. W. C. A. Organizes Girl Reserve Club

The Y. W. C. A. girls mean to start the new year right, it seems. They have two projects already launched. The first of these is the starting of a fund for a log cabin. The girls have decided to raise a certain amount of money each year for the erection of a log cabin on the campus.

Another project of the Y. W. is the organizing of the Girl Reserve in the College High School. The organization has already been made with Evelyn Evans in charge of the work. College girls interested in helping in this project may see Miss Evans.

Dorothy Winger, program chairman of the College Y. W., has completed the program calendar for the next two weeks. Tuesday, January 14, January 14, at 4:20 p. m., Mrs. Colbert spoke to the Y. W. girls.

On the following Tuesday, President Lamkin will speak. There will be special numbers at each program. All College students are cordially invited.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet are: President, Violette Hunter; vice-president, Rebekah Botkin; secretary, Margaret Conner; treasurer, Loraine Harris; program, Dorothy Winger; freshman commission, Evelyn Evans; social, Katherine Gray; membership, Imogene Woolf; world fellowship, Ruby Doak; social service, Virginia Morgan; publicity, Winifred Todd; pianist, Geraldine Hunt.

Y. W. C. A. group pictures may be obtained from Mildred Medsker or Margaret Conner.

THE COLLEGE HIGH SCHOOL

The College High School is maintained as an integral part of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College. This high school affords many opportunities not available to students of small towns where the enrollment is approximately the same.

The College High School is a member of the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges, the highest accrediting agency in the middle west. The College High School is fully approved by the State Department of Education. At the present time there are thirty-one classes offering as many different units of work. A student has a wide choice of electives with which to supplement his required work. Among the electives this year are: Agriculture, Bookkeeping, Physics, Shorthand, Vocational and General Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Fine Arts, French, Latin, Advanced Algebra and Advanced Arithmetic, Typewriting and Music Appreciation.

The teaching is done by college students, in either their major or minor field and under the direct supervision of the subject matter supervisor, a college instructor, and the Principal of the High School. High school students have access to much of the college equipment and materials of instruction as well as the College library. This affords the pupil opportunity to avail himself of supplementary work not possible in the ordinary high school. The High school runs on approximately the same schedule as the College and has the same intermissions.

The marriage of Miss Lucille Nettie Clark, a former student of the College, and Theodore Eldon Burger took place Oct. 11. Mr. and Mrs. Burger live at 215 N. E. Third St., Abilene, Kansas.

clared. It is a copy of the frieze, now in the British Museum, but which originally was on the outside of the Parthenon at Athens. The frieze extends along the top of all four sides of this temple, and represented a religious procession. The section of the frieze, a copy of which is at the College, is known as the "Frieze of the Horsemen," and shows the high-born youths of Athens riding. It owes its artistic beauty to the rhythm of the horses' figures, and the vigor and action of the horsemen.

Before the auditorium, stands the life-size statue of Lincoln, by the sculptor St. Gaudens, most famous of American's sculptors, according to Miss DeLuce. The College's statue is a copy of the original which stands in Lincoln Park, Chicago. One of the best-known and best-loved representatives in marble of this famous president, is this statue, the art instructor said. To see this piece of art to the best advantage, Miss DeLuce added, one should see it as one comes up the stairs just as the eye level approaches the level of the feet of the statue.

In the library are two copies of the works of cyrus Kallin, an American sculptor, Miss DeLuce pointed out. One, "The Scout," a small plaster copy of the original which is life-size and which is in Penn Valley Park in Kansas City on a high eminence overlooking the valley of the Kaw. The other, "The Appeal to the Great Spirit," is also a copy of an original of life size which stands before the Fine Arts Museum in Boston.

Probably no one who has studied in the west library has failed to notice the two landscape paintings there, one "Unconquered" by Delle Miller of Kansas City, and the other, "Hidden Valley" by Sandzen. Both are of good composition and color, Miss DeLuce commented, but are most effective when seen at a distance of fifteen or twenty feet.

In the east library is now hung a very good study of the main entrance of the capitol building in Jefferson City. The painting is by Parker.

The last acquisition of the College in the form of art, a gift of the senior class of 1929, hangs in Social Hall and is called "Mountains and Snow." This picture is, according to Miss DeLuce, a vigorous study of the hills in winter. It was painted by Berninghaus. It is extremely well painted, the art instructor went on to say, and the work of a man still in his twenties. In the same room is the Courtyard of St. John's Hospital, Canterbury, England, by Percival DeLuce, the father of Miss DeLuce, who was a member of the National Academy of this country. A small but vivid bit of coloring shows in the boat scene by Kathryn Cherry, a St. Louis artist, and the count is ended by the sight of two excellent etchings of Amiens and Rheims Cathedrals. "The College may well consider itself fortunate to have this nucleus towards a future museum," Miss DeLuce said in conclusion.

"Man's Mind is like a watch—it must be wound every day. True, some minds, like a dollar watch, must be wound several times a day, but even though your mind may be a perfect piece of workmanship, remember the driving power or the mainspring of your mental machinery is not perpetual motion."—Administrative.

The bigger the summer vacation the harder the fall.

The Stroller

By T. T. T.

The Stroller's wanderings this week have been very educational. As he was ambling along the walk to the dorm one morning last week, he overheard two dorm girls discussing a new method of curing corns. The Stroller wishes to thank the young ladies and intends to try their methods.

Again, the Stroller learns from Mary Kurtz, who in turn learned from Mr. Clauffield, that people who are engaged in making of harness, saddles, and other stuff like that are called people who work in leather.

The Stroller was considerably shocked to learn from an advertisement in the Northwest Missourian last week that the suits at Montgomery Ward & Company were said to be one-third off.

Another thing that has been learned, is why Mr. Cooper runs to school mornings. We have it from the runner, himself, that he runs for three reasons, viz: (1) to get there more quickly; (2) to keep from getting cold; (3) to keep from getting tired.

And the information comes from Cleopatra Dawson that she has heard of a new parking place. She says that a Scotchman or somebody who was too stingy to buy furniture, sat down on the spur of the moment.

A number (meaning two) of conversations were listened in on by the Stroller recently.

Mr. L.: I saw more people putting on shoes this morning on the campus at one time than I have ever seen for a long time.

Miss B.: Where were you, at the Dorm?

Mr. L.: No, I visited the kindergarten this morning.

(P. S.—You will have to visit the kindergarten room yourself, to understand.)

Conversation Number Two.

Mary Frances Clements: What's human geography?

Another student: I know what that is, I'm taking it.

M. F. C.: Hum. What do you do in that, study your map?

Alas, the Stroller is in mourning. He regrets to announce the death of a friend of long standing. His pet rat is dead. Raymond Mitzel killed him in the library the other night. If anyone wishes to know the kind of death the poor animal died, he should ask permission to see the stick with which the murder was committed.

P. S.—More business for the Law Club.

Queer, isn't it, how people like to work in Mr. Rickenbrode's office? Mildred Sandison seems to have forsaken, temporarily, at least, her job on the first floor, to take one on the second in the business manager's office.

And now that the snow is so plentiful, the Stroller is almost persuaded to take one of these free airplane rides, surely a fall wouldn't be so hard now. Some one suggests that the Stroller might adopt one of the S. T. C. snow plow mules as a pet and then use him as a means of conveyance during the snow siege. That's O. K. with the Stroller, provided the mule doesn't CRY about it.

Latin Classics into Turkish

Mustafa Kemal Pashal, the president of Turkey, believing that the Latin language is the vertebral column of Occidental civilization, has recently accepted a complete translation of Vergil's Eclogues into the Turkish language as an initial gesture toward the incorporation of translations of all the Latin classics into the Turkish language. The translations will enable the Turkish people to study these classics, and to bring about further occidentalization.

Mrs. A. L. Jackson

Writes to Registrar

Miss Nell Hudson, registrar of the College, has received the following letter from Mrs. A. L. Jackson, a former S. T. C. student who is now at Tuscaloosa, Alabama:

Dear Miss Hudson:

I think I shall kill two birds with one stone, as the saying goes, and make a friendly as well as business letter out of this. We are making our home here now, as Mr. Jackson is now principal of Stillman Institute, a high school and junior college of the Presbyterian Church. It is a lovely city of 20,000, and is called the Druid City, or the City of Oaks.

As the state university is located here, perhaps I shall have the opportunity of getting my degree after all. Will you please send a transcript of my grades at once to R. E. Adams, executive secretary of the University of Alabama. If I enter, it will be soon.

We should like to see all of our friends there. I wish that I might meet with our guild again. We had such lovely meetings. I feel that my dreams are at last coming true, as I had always longed for an opportunity to work in a church school. I am in charge of the library and enjoy the work very much. I'd appreciate a letter from you, and I thank you in advance for the transcript.

Very sincerely yours,
Mrs. A. L. Jackson.

Dr. Henry A. Foster Speaks at Forum

Dr. Henry A. Foster, head of the Social Science Department of the College, made a short, informal address concerning the League of Nations, before the Men's Monday Forum, at the South Methodist Flats, Monday noon, January 13.

Dr. Foster made a seemingly appropriate statement concerning the situation in the United States when he said that the Democrats who so actively sponsored the League through the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, the great war president, have recently given up their sponsorship of the League for votes which they have not as yet received.

In following statements, he expressed the opinion that the Republicans who, until recently have only on the sly, as it were, had anything to do with the League, were now more openly approving of the peace move.

The speaker then went somewhat into detail concerning the origin of the League, saying that it was not a new idea, as history records other such efforts on the part of nations to bring about lasting peace, but that the League, coming when it did, was a very fitting climax to the turbulent times.

Mr. Foster explained the working machinery of the organization and said that one of the greatest differences between this peace pact and others which have been made in the is to be seen in the fact that it was an agreement between weak nations and strong nations, whereas other such leagues have been made up only of nations who were so recognized on account of their military power.

Dr. Foster told the work and progress of the League of Nations and said that, barring the United States, the nations who were not members of the League were, from certain viewpoints, rather an insignificant group.

Mr. O. Myking Mehous of the College, distributed to the men present at the luncheon, a folder entitled, "The League of Nations at Ten Years of Age."

Social Science Club Meets This Evening

The Social Science Club will meet in Social Hall on Wednesday evening, 7:30 p. m., January 15th. The subject for discussion is "The World Court." The main talk will be given by T. H. Cook of the Social Science Department. Short talks will be given by Ada Fair Sutton, Virginia Tulloch, Myrtle Wells, and Nettie Price.

Two Instructors Meet with Accident

On being questioned concerning the car accident which recently happened to her and which has caused her to resort to the use of a very unusual antique cane in order to be on the job at the College, Miss Bowman of the English Department, reports that it was all her fault, or rather, it was the fault of the car she was driving, since it skidded in front of another oncoming vehicle.

She reports that, when she regained consciousness, she was very much on the pavement at some distance from the car. It seems that her fellow-passenger, Miss Blanche Dow, of the College, received a lesser amount of the shock or, at least was "out" for a shorter count, since, according to Miss Bowman, Miss Dow made the first speech when she addressed her with the words, "Are you hurt?" To this question, a negative reply was given.

It seems that, as a result of the spill, Miss Dow received two slightly sprained hands. Evidently the injury came as a result of an attempt to ward off the danger in a rather too hasty adjustment to environment.

Miss Bowman very bravely tries to shoulder all the blame, and at the same time she is unwilling to reveal any of the particulars of the happenings. She seemed pleased, however, with at least three things in connection with the accident, barring the fact that she is somewhat lame, and carries a bruised face and a severe cut under the right eye.

She was pleased that the tire on the wheel which had all the spokes removed in the crash, was not in the least injured. Again, she liked the treatment she received at the hospital, and especially did she appreciate the efficiency of her doctor. Finally, she was pleased with the ancient cane which was given her by a kind and thoughtful gentleman.

On being asked if Delaware, Ohio, the scene of the accident, was where Washington crossed, Miss Bowman said, "Well, it's where I crossed my Delaware." At any rate, the ladies have promised that a report of the convention of foreign languages, to which they were going, will be made in the near future.

Miss Frances Hackett spent the week-end at her home in Burlington Junction.

Campus Comedies Are Coming Soon

Announcement comes from the student council, issued through Gordon Trotter, president, that the fifth annual Campus Comedies will be presented on the night of February 7. More than twenty organizations of the College are expected to prepare stunts for this gala event to be held in the auditorium.

The council was in session Monday night to appoint committees and make preliminary arrangements for the entertainment.

Presidents of all the organizations have already been requested to start preparations for the program. Each organization is entitled to present one stunt not to exceed seven minutes in length. Three prizes are to be awarded. Five dollars will constitute the award to be given for each of the following: (1) The presentation of stunt most characteristic of an organization; (2) the presentation of the most humorous stunt; (3) the presentation of the most artistic stunt.

"Organizations must make entries not later than January 31," the student president said. Information on the entry sheet must give information as to nature of stunt, its length, and the number of students entered. The procedure of program will be arranged by the committees in charge.

Proceeds derived from Campus Comedies will be used to publish a student handbook.

Campus Comedies, sponsored by the student council, has been given every year since 1926. President Trotter said that it was the hope of the council that the 1930 comedies would exceed all former years with an added interest from each organization.

College Endeavor Has Meeting

At the close of the College Christian Endeavor services Sunday evening, January 12, Mr. Mehous, sponsor of the group, commended the work of those who took part in the discussion of the evening. He stressed the value of the lessons for the next ten weeks.

The lesson, "The Master's Magnanimity" stressed the fact that Jesus' magnanimity was best shown by His treatment of His enemies. The discussions included examples of such magnanimity in individuals and in nations. Glen Duncan was the leader.

Cleola Dawson will be leader of the lesson next Sunday evening on, "The Master's Indignation."

Miss Ella Cloud spent the week-end at her home in Grant City.

Scalp Indians

last ten minutes of the game resorted to stalling tactics to get set for plays, occasionally slipping a sleeper under the basket for an additional counter.

The second game was similar to the first, particularly as to the score. The Bearcats were really bad medicine to those Indians. The boys entered the game full of confidence, and did not hesitate to start for the basket. Scores mounted and Maryville commanded from the first. The Cape team seemed worn from the night before and failed to penetrate the Maryville defense for sufficient scores to maintain exciting competition. In the last half, Cape's scores totaled two, from as many free throws.

A fair crowd saw both games, the first drawing the greater number. The gate was the largest of any thus far this season.

Entertainment between halves was furnished in the form of stunts by the pep organizations of the school. On Friday evening the Green and White Peppers presented a drill, preceded by a novel new chant, all of which was quite cleverly worked out and excellently executed. Saturday night, the Growlers furnished the show with a Bearcat scalping an Indian.

John Wulf refereed the first game, and Park Carroll was head official of the second, with Wulf assisting as umpire.

Students May Win News Story Prize

A prize is offered by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, of which the Northwest Missourian is a member, for the best news story written by a student for his own particular publication.

The contest is open to all magazines and newspapers published by public or private schools below the rank of college, and by teachers' colleges and normal schools, a teachers' college class, and a special class for those not included in these three.

The Columbia Press Association will hold its sixth annual convention March 13, 14, and 15, at which the various school publications will be judged and prizes offered for the best. Last year the Northwest Missourian was accorded fourth place among all publications of its class, in the nation.

Well over one thousand editors and staff members attend the convention, while the leading men and women in journalism, writing and publishing, representing the largest, best known, and most influential publications and firms give addresses, present the facts about their specialty in journalism, and answer the questions of the delegates.

Concerning the writing of a news story for competition in the prize contest, the following directions are given in a folder circulated by the Association:

"This circular gives all the facts concerning the C. S. P. A., its organization, activities, plans, policies, and its mode of operation. It gives the how, what, when, where, and why. Write a story for your paper based on this information. If you are on the staff of a newspaper, make it a news story; if on the staff of a magazine, make it fit the requirements of your publication. Include the previous participation of your paper in C. S. P. A. activities, telling the contests entered, prizes won, delegates who have attended the conventions and what they have thought of them. Will your paper enter this year and will your school be represented at the annual meeting in March? Tell the whole story and when it is printed in the paper, send a marked copy direct to the secretary, Joseph M. Murphy, 406 John Jay Hall, Columbia University, New York City, labeled on the envelope—"Prize Story Contest." The winning newspaper story and magazine story will be announced at the convention and an award will be presented at that time. The two stories will also be printed in "The School Press Review," the official monthly publication of the organization.

Big Agriculture Classes

The enrollment in the freshman agriculture classes, Forage Crops 12 and General Horticulture 15, is unusually large this quarter. The Forage Crops class has an enrollment of thirty-six students, and the General Horticulture class has a still larger enrollment. Mr. Schowengerdt is the teacher.
